

Inspiring Words by Visionary Speakers

Students of School of Liberal Studies at PDPU attended a talk by Dr Lalitesh Katragadda, a pioneer in crowd sourcing and building products for the underserved on Tuesday. Dr Lalitesh through his creation, Google Map Maker, doubled the world's digital maps corpus, mapping 2 billion people in 187 countries. In his lecture he weaved stories with information and vision; to describe how the information technology is already changing the world around us. He talked about the access to information and using that as a tool to eradicate poverty for the country like India. Students also attended HR Summit 2014 which themed 'Redefining employability for Gen Y'.

The event, witnessed more than 300 students and 70 HR professionals from various industries. The speakers shared their practical experiences.
